

FACILITATION HELP:BE DEVOTED TO YOUR STUDENTS

You can do this by being consistent in your attendance. Life events and emergencies pop up here and there. However, it's important that chronic absence does not become a habit. Your attendance will show your students how committed you are to this group, and likewise they will continue to show up if you're there. If you, as the leader, demonstrate your commitment to this group, your students will see your example and will respond in kind.
